YOUR WEDDING DAY
And the Famous Men and Women Who Have Shared It.

By MARY MARSHALL.

July 15.—Emperor Frederick II. and Isabella Frida—Eugene Boleslavsky and Inez Mitholland.

Six hundred and eighty-two attended the wedding of Frederick II. and Isabella Frida at the attention of all Europe. The bridegroom was Frederick II., who as Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire was the greatest ruler in Christendom, and the bride was Isabella, a daughter of King John, of England, and a French princess.

At the time of the marriage Isabella was 21 years old, not extremely young for a royal bride in those days, and Frederick II. was 29. He had been Emperor for fifteen years and had made himself particularly popular shortly before his marriage by a crusade which he had undertaken and on which he had procured Jerusalem, Nazareth and other sacred spots from the Saracens.

It is somewhat of a stretch of the imagination to jump from this wedding in the far-away past to another wedding which took place four years ago today, when the bride was Inez Mitholland, the beautiful and youthful American suffrage leader, and the bridegroom was a young Hollander of wealth and social position whom Miss Mitholland had met in her travels. At the time of her marriage, of course, there was much publicity because of Miss Mitholland's beauty and charm and social position, no less than because she was looked upon as one of the most promising leaders of the most aggressive branch of the suffrage party. When Miss Mitholland quite frankly admitted that she had done the proposing a good many conservative persons were a bit shocked, but when she added that she had not been able to gain her husband's consent until she had proposed several times, their surprise was even greater. Had Miss Mitholland been less beautiful, or had it not been an open secret that she had had many very ardent admirers among her own American countrymen, she might not have been able to make this statement with such enjoyment.

Mrs. William Haywood has leased her residence in 1 street to the government, and is now leasing at her residence, 1330 Jefferson place.

Joseph H. Grew, former counselor of the American embassy in Vienna, and Mrs. Grew have taken possession of the residence, 1018 Twenty-first street, which they have leased from Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Anderson. Mr. Grew is now on duty at the State Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doherty, Jr., of California, who expect to spend next season in Washington, have taken two suites in an apartment house in State street, just north of Boundary Castle. Mr. Doherty's parents spent the spring and early summer here, and were entertained elaborately during their stay.

Representative and Mrs. William Rodenberry, of Illinois, are established in the house they have leased at 300 Macomb street, in Cleveland Park. Mrs. Rodenberry was Miss Mary Ridgeway, of Washington.

Social Notes.

Mr. Emanuel Haas is the house guest of his mother, before leaving for an indefinite stay in the South.
